JOHANN CHRISTIAN BACH

Symphonies & Concertos

Akademie für Alte Musik Berlin

••• 0h55 1 CD HMC901803 February 2004

The fundamental differences between north German rationalism and Italian sensibility were still regarded as irreconcilable in the 1760s and 1770s, until Viennese Classicism finally managed to blend them in the 1780s and 1790s. The works recorded here represent important milestones on the road to that synthesis.
