WOLFGANG AMADEUS MOZART

Piano Sonatas

Andreas Staier

1h01 Digital HMC901856 February 2005

Because Mozart's music is not set in stone. It is not the least of Andreas Staier's merits to raise the question of decoration in these sonatas. He answers that question himself at the fortepiano, with an outstanding sense of poetry coupled with a hefty dose of mischief when it comes to interpretative options . . . as you can judge for yourself when you listen to his version of the Rondo alla turca, for instance...

Andreas Staier plays a fortepiano by Monika May, Marburg, 1986, after Anton Walter, Vienna, 1785.
